

Lila Grace Moss
With the perennial style icon for a mum and one of the coolest names in fashion publishing as a dad, little Lila Grace has had more than a helping hand in her ascension to the Best Dressed Kids list. Described by Mossy as a "mini me" and destined to have a career on the catwalk, Lila has already made firm friends with Donatella Versace. Now that's one seriously stylish babysitter to have...

Suri Cruise
Could these two look any more alike? The shiny brunette bob, the elegant poise, the timeless outfits – 16-month-old Suri really is a Katie in the making. Favouring more traditional styles like cute sundresses and cardis over super-trendy separates, Suri and her mum have been spotted in various designer stores across the fashion capitals, and there were even rumours that Suri was set to be the new face of Baby Gap. Nice work, little lady!

Kingston Rosedale Stefani
From funky camouflage combats to skater boy tees and dinky baseball boots, Kingston's look is totally on-trend. Thanks to his achingly hip fashion mogul/pop star mum Gwen and rocker dad Gavin, there was no chance this boy was ever going to be dressed in boring baby gear. Already inspiring his mum's designs (yes, the 'Kingston shoe' made its debut at New York Fashion Week!), we think this bundle of gorgeousness could be the youngest fashion muse on the planet.

Anais Gallagher
Anais looks set to be topping the fashion tree of the next generation of London's glitzy Primrose Hill set. Thanks to her rock'n'roll genes (dad is Oasis founder Noel Gallagher and mum is former party girl Meg Matthews), it's no surprise that Anais has an inherent punk princess/boho style. Her favourite outfit? Pink tutu with stripy tights and biker boots. Oh, and plenty of Juicy Couture.

Lourdes Ciccone
As the offspring of one of the greatest style icons of our time, Madonna's daughter Lourdes has been handed an inherent passion for fashion. But while her mum isn't too happy with her daughter's current love of low-slung skinny jeans, Lourdes's usual style of cute, preppy separates and dinky accessories shows an early sense of classic style. Let's just hope she doesn't develop a penchant for conical bras and glitzy leotards!

Looking good, baby!

Move over mum and dad! The fashion-forward tots of Hollywood are hogging the limelight with their style savvy. But who are the contenders for the title of Best Dressed Kid in Celebland? Glamour investigates...

Their parents' style is emulated and scrutinised across the globe, so it was only a matter of time before our gaze landed on the A-list brat pack. And who can blame us when these trendsetting tots are as image-conscious as their folks? Whether they're a diva-in-a-diaper type or the king of the sandbox, dressing for the playground has never been so competitive – or so glamorous. With rock stars, fashion gurus, sports legends and movie stars as their guiding force, Hollywood's newest arrivals could hardly expect to be decked out in anything less than the latest kiddie couture. But which bambino takes the fashion crown?

MAKE MINE A MINI ME...

There's nothing like putting in the groundwork for a fashion-forward family. Will and Jada Pinkett Smith are well on their way with an adorably groomed brood (just look at that colour coordination!), Brooke is passing on east coast casual chic to her kiddies, but Angelina takes the crown – a Valentino Histoire tote for her, and a teeny weeny version for her gorgeous girl Zahara. Just too adorable for words!
